

ABSTRACT

A three-dimensionally constructed warp knit fabric formed to include two front-surface and back-surface ground knit constructions and connection yarns interconnecting the two front-surface and back-surface ground knit constructions has insertion yarns between the connection yarns, in which the insertion yarn is fixed along the inner side of the back-surface ground knit construction. Further, the insertion yarn is fixed by a fixing yarn to the back-surface ground knit construction.